

ANNOUNCER; You've tuned in to another edition of The Break Room. A weekly conversation about how the City of St Augustine works from those who do the work everyday. Hosted by the City of St Augustine's Communications Director, Melissa

Wissel. The Break Room offers a closer look at the different city departments and provides updates on current and upcoming projects and events. And now your host, Melissa Wissel.

MELISSA: Welcome to The Break Room.
Thanks for tuning in. I'm

Melissa Wissel, Communications Director for the City of St

Augustine. It's Waste and Recycling Work week. So, I've invited the City of St Augustine Solid Waste Manager

Olivia Smith to join me in studio. Olivia, welcome back.

OLIVIA: Thank you. Always good to be here. I love when you come here. We have lots to talk about. So, we're not going to waste any time. Your entire staff is made up of waste and recycling workers. You guys are the sunrise to sunset superheroes. You work from 4 AM to about 1 AM. OLIVIA: Correct. So, our first staff crews start at 4 AM for commercial garbage, all the way through our night litter gentlemen that ends at 1 AM.

So, there is only a three-hour gap every 24 hours that we are not servicing something or someone. MELISSA: So, the city is sleeping for three hours. OLIVIA: Yes, correct. MELISSA: Well, that's not even true because like water treatment and wastewater. OLIVIA: Are still at it. Right. So, trash is sleeping for three hours.

MELISSA: Trash is sleeping. But let's talk about that. You have everything from trash trucks, street sweepers, litter control, yard debris, dumpsters, power washers, front loaders, rear loaders.

I only know that because I've been working with you and we've been doing these interviews. But let's just address one thing off the bat. We've had a hard time keeping up with our schedule somewhat but we're we are keeping up. A little bit of a slowdown. Tell me, tell us what's going on. Let our listeners know what happened and we're back in action. OLIVIA: It's fair enough, Melissa. So, on the residential collection and is where we're really feeling the lull right now with services. It's from outdated, older equipment, if we have some issues with our equipment, also staffing, probably as the rest of the world is dealing with, every industry across the board, we are short staffed.

If there's inclement weather, that puts us a bit behind.

If there's large events and other services, not to say it takes priority, but it runs in conjunction with other things that we do with the department. There is a lag. MELISSA: You're almost in competition with your own resources. OLIVIA: With our own resources. Yeah. Absolutely. And so as we fall behind one day, we have to catch up the next. So obviously that becomes a domino effect and so we're doing our absolute best to get back on track, hiring the right folks, right, having the right innovative equipment. Our routes are also growing. So as more people set more volume to the curb and the city continues to grow, our routes are getting longer, harder and harder for us to get done in an eight-hour day. So we just want to thank everyone for their continued patience and support during this time. It it's it has been tough across the board. MELISSA: We, as soon as we knew though, I will say this to folks listening, if you follow us on Facebook, check out our website, because we do have this little cool alert ticker kind of thing that goes across the top of the website. So, it doesn't matter what page you enter the website. If we know that there's going to be a delay or an outage or a shortage of some sort that's going to impact residents for more than a day really, we're going to put something out about it. We certainly appreciate people's frustration but you, I think we put the word out pretty well.

People were pretty understanding once they knew what was happening. OLIVIA: Yeah, the communication was essential.

We hear it every day, phone, via email, and obviously through the social media platform. So, all of us working together to get that info out to the community again has just been instrumental. MELISSA: So, assuming all equipment is working functionally for the most part.

Tell me about some of the equipment that you, your department does operate. I think, we, I just always think of like a trash truck. Right. But there's so much more than what you guys do. OLIVIA: Yeah, if you break down the apparatus and what it is they do. Our front load handles the commercial trash and recycling. Then you've got rear loaders. Most people are familiar with. Go through and do commercial and residential trash, recycling, and yard waste.

So they're tipping on the back with the throwers. The front loaders are one man show.

They've got the forks on the front. We've got roll off drivers. They do all the compactors and open tops.

Rather it's city owned, retail owned. They are the ones that haul... MELISSA: Dumpsters. OLIVIA: So they're a large, yeah 30-yard roll off container, is a is a large construction dumpster and or the compactors. MELISSA: So that like what I see up north of town or over by the ramp? The lighthouse? OLIVIA: Correct. Okay correct yes. So they're the larger units, they do need to be hauled differently. We do the clown grapple truck which is for your oversize and your bulk material, whether it's storm debris or it's a move out or what not. We also have a fork truck that does our construction dumpster rentals and also placement for events, that we're able to transport those dumpsters back and forth to Francis Field, the Fort, things of that nature.

Street sweepers, pretty people are pretty familiar with. We have nine zones. So, it takes a bit for the street sweepers to really work through their zone and thoroughly maintain the streets. Pressure washing van, downtown corridor, parks, city hall, bayfront, they do it all.

Also, the litter crew pickup is again downtown, city hall, parks, and right of way cleanup. MELISSA: And that's people physically. There's some stuff you just can't do with a machine.

OLIVIA: That is correct. A lot of this manual. MELISSA: Human person walking with their hand and a poker pincher thing in their hand. OLIVIA: Correct.

MELISSA: Very technical. Poker pincher thing. Very technical. OLIVIA:

Yeah, you got it. But yes.

And that's what makes us, when we look at essential workers and waste workers week, the safety and health side of it is is pretty important. Those factors of how people can be injured on the job, we're always in the top dozen most dangerous jobs and careers in the nation. And so it's pretty important for folks to understand what type of job we're out there doing. MELISSA: When you're exposed to all the debris. OLIVIA: Airborne pathogens, you name it. MELISSA: It's not pretty work. OLIVIA: No. No.

It's hard work everyday. Mike Rowe made a career out of that. OLIVIA: Yes. MELISSA: If you're just now tuning in, you are listening to

The Break Room. I'm Melissa Whistle, Communications

Director for the City of Saint Augustine. Today, I'm sharing

The Break Room with Olivia

Smith. She is our Solid Waste

Manager and we are talking about our Sunrise to Sunset Superhero that is our waste and recycling workers for Waste and Recycling Workers Week. See if you can say that five times fast. So, we're talking about the equipment. Tell me about how we're how are we doing?

OLIVIA: Well, so we've got a division of thirty folks. Out of those 30 folks, most of us harness two to three decades of collection and material management. So a lot of expertise. And because we are so busy are, we still maintain our core focus which is safety and customer service. So that's always in the forefront of what we do.

Kind of behind the scenes, what what most people don't see, not the the residential garbage trucks and whatnot, is the other things that we're doing behind the scenes. The city owns seven compactors, two of those being solar. So we maintain those as well. There are five city owned recycling drop off centers, 15 city parks that we maintain, we also do ashtrays, trash, and recycling receptacles, benches, sidewalks, loose litter, and dog waste stations throughout the entire city. So this, all of our crews encompass this type of stuff. In between that, we're delivering carts to residents and businesses. We are the compost bins. We deliver those.

So we can touch on that a little bit. We coordinate and supply event staging. So rather it's Fourth of July or Nights of Lights or it's a private event on Francis Field. That is our folks as well. We refurbish cans in house, rather it's painting, decating, rebuilding some of the stationary cans. We do commercial audits. We build diversion programs, homeless camp cleanups, waterway cleanups, we manage an e-waste program, and we host annual environmental events. So, just so everyone understands, the scope of solid waste. We're so much more than just out there picking up a little bit of garbage. Doing the roadways. MELISSA: On the watch around neighborhood, driving driving cool trucks. OLIVIA: We're a big outfit. MELISSA: Well and honestly, I just trying to get one of your workers, any couple of your workers to come on today, and they're just busy. OLIVIA: Yes. If everyone is in the field. MELISSA: And your folks love what they do. OLIVIA;

They're dedicated. They so are.
We're very very blessed with just a crew that not only has expertise, but they have heart. MELISSA:

Yeah, they do. What do you want to remind, anything to remind our listeners? We've still got a few minutes to chat, but. What do you see common, are there trends? And how is the composting working? OLIVIA: So, to touch on the compost, we've delivered about half of our initial pilot applicant bins.

These folks are static. I mean, we've even had folks come out and give us produce from their garden where they've started the composting. They're phenomenal. They're just so excited and energetic about the program, that I really hope that this spreads. Yes. And that we can do more. MELISSA: Help us keep ahead of or at least in with the times of being environmentally aware.

OLIVIA: Yeah and hoping that wet waste, you know, that wet waste which is organic matter, switching to a, to a better use. And so that's been going I've I've actually spoke to each resident that we've delivered personally, just to offer that face to face. Do a follow up. How's it going? Tips and tricks. So, nothing but kudos for that. MELISSA: And stay tuned because we're not sure what the next cycle of. OLIVIA: Right, fingers crossed. MELISSA: Okay, crossed. And those of you who have them, enjoy. If if you happen to live next door to somebody who got one, maybe ask 'em if it let you. OLIVIA: Ask them some questions. MELISSA: Throw some peels their ways. OLIVIA: Yeah. Absolutely.

They're large. The units are large and we're still delivering. So, it's ongoing.

We appreciate your patience.

If you're one of the applicants. So, reminders and we've always got some great reminders. Curbside service, 7 AM or the night before. We can't stress that enough.

Routes are growing. Help us help you get it collected. So, 7 AM is go time for us. Bag the trash folks, right? We're dealing with again, airborne pathogens, dangerous materials.

So, we need that stuff to be bagged for aesthetic purposes also for safety and health standards. Recycling always.

We do reminders. Let's keep it loose, clean, and dry. So, let's look at, containerize your yard waste. A lot of folks are yard waste in the recycling bins and their trash bin. That is not a yard waste bin. It needs to be bagged or use your own can and that will be collected. MELISSA: Paper bags. OLIVIA: Paper bags are great. I still have some to give away if you folks are listening. Call Solid Waste. MELISSA: Call Solid Waste and

there's they're not that expensive I will say. OLIVIA: No you can get a bundle for about $2.50 at Home Depot Lowe. Some of your retailers. So those are great for again composting and things. So they break down great in the environment. No hazardous waste. We touched on this multiple times on the show. C and D material, your construction debris. We do not haul it at the curb. So, please call solid waste. We'll give you some recommendations. We also rent construction dumpsters. Great for demolition projects, home renovation, that's one of our specialties.

Glass, things like doors, windows, and mirrors. Those are too dangerous to throw just loose to the curb. Let's sandwich it in between some cardboard, tape it up, and write glass on it. When it's thrown in that truck and the hopper crushes it. It doesn't bust out into your neighborhood. It doesn't break on the drivers, right? So again, just safety and cleanliness factors. Solid waste works every holiday currently except Christmas.

Make sure those cans are out the night before. We try not to go back on holidays. We want to get home safely to our families, as well. But we are there to service you. Again, we've had some recent delays. We just want to thank everyone for your patience, participation, support, continued participation and support in our environmental programs that we create. Without you guys, these programs would not be successful. And last but not least, Solid Waste is hiring.

We have multiple job openings.

So, help us get this stuff picked up. Come be part of the team. We have a great time and provide a great service. MELISSA: Well, okay. I have to ask you one last question though.

Furniture. OLIVIA: Furniture. That's a good one. MELISSA: Now, why TVs I can bring to the E Waste. OLIVIA: TVs.

Yeah. Call me down there and let's discuss it. They're considered hazardous waste these days, like your paint and light bulbs. But the other electronics that we do collect.

Yes. So, your furniture, your bulk items, we typically allow two bulk items per household collection day. That is for our residents. Two bulk items through, that way it doesn't pack out the truck and all your neighbors get the same great service. MELISSA: And do I need to call you and tell you or can I put that nasty chair on the curb? OLIVIA: Typically no. If it's a chair and a mattress, some lawn furniture. Just remember, two bulk items per collection day. If you've got a move out and a big purge project, you do want to call us, there may be charges that apply.

But in order to provide that same great service that the folks have come to expect and appreciate.

We have to make sure that we're moving through these routes as efficiently and effectively as possible. So, always just communicate with solid waste.

We love to speak to to our local residents and make sure that everyone's getting it right. MELISSA: You guys are great down there. OLIVIA: Thank you so much. MELISSA: Always on track. I did take some paint cans up to the county. OLIVIA: Awesome.

MELISSA: Cuz I knew we couldn't take them there. OLIVIA: That's right. MELISSA: We'll look forward to what, November our next event. OLIVIA: Yeah, we've done Earth Day.

Successful and so yes, we'll be moving on to November around the fifteenth ish, which is America Recycles Day. And so we do that what three times a year now. We're we're pretty on on point with that so. MELISSA: So, stay tuned for the next event.

Olivia, always great to talk trash. OLIVIA: Absolutely. MELISSA: And thank you. Please extend a great big thank you to our Sunrise to Sunset superheroes, all those folks that you have down there working for you. And we appreciate what you and your staff does. OLIVIA: Thank you guys so much. MELISSA: The Break Room is now on
