

[Narrator] You've tuned in to another edition of The Breakroom, a weekly conversation about how the City of Saint Augustine works from those who do the work every day. Hosted by the City of Saint Augustine's communications director,

Melissa Wissel. The Breakroom offers a closer look at the different city departments and provides updates on current and upcoming projects and events and now your host Melissa Wissel. [Melissa] Welcome to The Breakroom. Thanks for tuning in. We are back in studio this week to follow up on a conversation we had back in August with former police chief Barry Fox talking about the city's efforts to help our unsheltered homeless finding solutions to provide services and support to get folks back on their feet reunited with their families. Still lots to talk about. Barry, welcome back. [Barry] Oh, thank you for having me. [Melissa] So, not only in the city but we've got partnerships going with continuous care, home against Saint John's, Saint John's County Government as of course with the sheriff's office. Give us an update.

Let's let's start with the property. [Barry] Oh so. [Melissa] Our property.

[Barry] So our property. Yes.

[Melissa] We kind of talked about that but it was.

Yeah. Not quite happening yet.

[Barry] Yeah. It's official. That it is official. The the landswap has gone through. The property is ours. Um we have lifted the canopy on a it's got a beautiful tree canopy on it. Um so we have lifted the canopy.

We've cleaned the property.
We've mowed the property and two weeks ago I went to the Planning and Zoning Board and I've got approvals to tear down the buildings if needed after assessments and those assessments are in. Um we are going to go take one building down because we'll be preparing it to move one of our service providers to that site and put a fence up. So, yeah. [Melissa] And just so folks know, remind folks this is behind Winn Dixie. [Barry] It is ninety and ninety-two South Dixie and it's right right at 20seven in South Dixie. Yeah.

[Melissa] Great location. [Barry] It is. [Melissa] And like you said, a beautiful tree canopy and talk about the service that we're moving there first. [Barry] So, the first service we'll be moving there is once we get the fence up and cleaned up. It'll we'll be dining with dignity. We're going to be making that transition and then we'll we'll try to work on some some hygienal issues such as restrooms and something like that and then we'll be reaching out to anyone that has any kind of services that are self contained like showers or wash and we'll start scheduling them to be there on certain days that will. [Melissa] Traveling haircuts?

[Barry] Um yeah, we could we could probably do some traveling haircuts. Maybe work with the the tech center to see if there are people will come out and as a as part of their class and do some haircuts but all those things have to be worked out, you know. Yeah. [Melissa] Tell me the vision, the long-term vision because this is not going to happen overnight But we really have a great vision. [Barry] We do. So the the vision of the of the program will be to really you know the the city of Saint Augustine is not going into the homeless service providing services to the homeless. [Melissa] It's not overnight. [Barry] It it's not overnight. What we're really our vision is and the city's vision is is we it's we're at that point where we we need somewhere where all the different service providers that are housed up underneath that that continuum of care can come and and provide services because now they're at their locations and it's hard for the homeless to know where that location is and you know your your outreach personnel are going out and they're finding people and they're bringing them back if they qualify. Well what we want is that one service where the homeless feel comfortable to be at so that we can bring in all the service providers once, twice, three times a week, all week if they want and they can they can be touching a captive audience for lack of a better word. [Melissa] Touching their lives. Yeah. [Barry] Um and and every day offering services and we're you know bringing wildflower clinic so we're we're helping with that you know because there's things if we can solve things at a service center then we can solve emergency room trips things that are costing taxpayers we can solve trips to the jail you know things that are costing taxpayers and start really kind of working on it like that so so the vision is is is the city is going to support all these different service providers because we feel confident that every need is being met and the gaps are really just small and the and those gaps when you really talk about them are really just kind of geographical or [Melissa] kind of connecting getting each piece connected. [Barry] Yeah, you're kind of just getting each piece connected but we've got a site where each one of em can connect and we can fill those little gaps and a service center or wellness center for lack of a better term is we believe is that part where we can bring all the different outreach teams from all the

together. One, like I said, one day a week or two days a week or all week, it doesn't really matter and and really be touching those individuals that want to come there and just have a place to where they feel safe and because there is a lot of in in the homeless community. There is a lot of you know you segregate yourself for your safety. You kind of you know you're kind of trying to find that safe place. But our the city's point will be to try to bring those services to that location. But the thing we'll be concentrating on in a gap will be daily laundry eventually. Daily showers and a mail room because if you don't have a mailing address you can't you can't get benefits.

They won't sell them they won't send them to general delivery.

In that mailroom. And those three things are key for and get you get you appropriately washed and appropriately showered and you know, I can get you possibly employable and we can help you from there. [Melissa] So, I can come charge my phone, sit with the counselor. [Barry] Yeah. [Melissa] Maybe it's a career counselor. Maybe it's mental health counselor.

[Barry] Maybe it's mental health counselor. [Melissa] Dental appointments. [Barry] We've been. Yeah, we've been talking to Lutheran Services about some some possibility of some services there so that's that's in play.

So, there's a lot of things that are in play that this center can really really kind of bring all those service providers together and really have that. You know, when I say a captive audience, it's not like they're going to walk on the on the facility and gates going to close that gate.

Right, right. But it's going to be somewhere where it's for for them that where they're comfortable. [Melissa] There's a it's a but there's a mission there which is to really help really help solve like you said, it's filling those gaps so that you can get someone off the street, get them a job, get them housed and care. [Barry] Where we can make the most of outreach. [Melissa] Right. [Barry] Yeah, absolutely. [Melissa] Uh so, you are tuned in to the break room. I'm Melissa Whistle, communication director for the City of Saint Augustine. Barry Fox is joining me. He is our code enforcement manager Heading up the city's initiatives for homelessness and we just started talking about the city. Let's shift gears a little bit. Um I think I'm going to have to have you come back because we're not going to get all this in in one more episode now. [Barry] You can never. [Melissa] Um let's talk about Saint John's County and the $2.

2 million dollars that just went towards that groundbreaking. [Barry] Yes so.

[Melissa] Opportunity. That's huge. [Barry] Right and and so I can't I I know that Saint John's County is involved. I can't speak to how it come to home again. [Melissa] Sure.

[Barry] And I can't speak to the amount but Troy and Ellen and and Mike Davis are all doing a great job out there homeless home against Saint John's and they'd have their groundbreaking for their facility on 16 and their their their vision for that is very similar to the cities the only difference is is they'll have a housing component Now in a in a

I don't want to get outside of my lane. [Melissa] Sure. [Barry] But I know that there's a housing unit a housing aspect to their then there's they also have a veterans housing aspect to that. Now I can't clarify the two. [Melissa] That's fine. Sure. [Barry] Or or if they're one and the same. But I know that they're working on two different types of housing aspects. And so Home Again is really kind of you know moving forward and putting things together. We did have a we had that that groundbreaking the other day. We had county commissioners. We had military was present. [Melissa] the Mayor was there. [Barry] Um faith-based faith-based leaders were there.

Uh there was an overwhelming amount of city leaders there because you know we're so involved in that project and and and Commissioner Garris is involved in that board and the mayor was there Mayor Sykes Klein was there and I'm going to miss someone Commissioner Springfield I know

I'll miss someone all you know the directors and David Burcham yeah I know right and if I miss some I apologize but I I think counties yeah so okay I'm going to move on from that everybody was there and they it was very appreciative [Melissa] it is it is huge. it's a huge step [Barry] yeah [Melissa] and we're so excited to be partnering. We really are I think we're sort of this joining forces. [Barry] Yeah.

You know in in this particular in this particular issue for communities it's it's paramount that that the service providers really kind of get a working relationship and kind of stick with it and and you know the city is is you know we're I'm you know I'm kind of the lead for the city of of course I have those that I answer to but you know, it really key not to duplicate services. [Melissa] Right. [Barry] You know, but there are some things that have to be duplicated just because they have to be immediate. [Melissa] Well, you can't you you've there's probably we're probably going to find a lot more people that need the services that one facility alone can't necessarily have.

[Barry] Right and and if there's and if there's you know, if there's an a need out there where the one one offering that service can't just meet it, then, I'm sure that that's a continuum of care discussion and the city doesn't want to step on anybody's toes and we're not going to be looking to try to re invent or redo or reproduce someone's service and we're not going to be doing that but there are a couple there is one out there that we know that Saint Johns County runs and we've ran it through the police department for 30 years and there is it there is an absolute need for that to be a duplicate of service because it serves our homeless at different times of the day and night and and and need. [Melissa] And you're talking about [Barry & Melissa] family reunification program.

[Barry] Yeah. [Melissa] We're we're about out of time but let's talk about that.

So. So that folks know that's again like you said it's another component. [Barry] It is. So the family reunification program started with the Saint Augustine Police Department,

roughly thirty, 31 years ago.

It was a vision of Steve Frickies, a mentor of mine that was at the police department and it was a program that was put together so that the homeless basically when the homeless wanted to not be home, they wanted to move from unsheltered sheltered again.

They wanted to go home. They they were had patched up the problems with the family. What whatever the the issue was. We would get them home because you know Saint Johns County didn't really have the ability to house people. You know we had

Saint Francis House and their mission has changed to more of a permanent supportive or temporary however you explain it. And so they're not that homeless shelter. So we we started spending a little bit of money and Steve worked it out. So we started spending a little bit of money in buying bus tickets and sending people home as long as you know we could verify that there was someone on the other end that was willing to take them off the street of family member we could talk to that family member and verify that and that they weren't a violent individual going back to a situation where they were victimizing someone we weren't going to do that and and that program's been in place for like I said 30 what the 31 years that I've worked for the city so I'll give it that much this Saint Johns County when Sheriff Hardwick Started his reentry program. He's duplicating that process because he has one additional added value to that to that thing and which is when when people enter into the reentry program in the jail, they're they're getting sober. [Melissa] Right.

[Barry] They're getting clean and and it's key for that to be run out of that program because you want to bring those individuals out of that program in that jail clean and sober and you want to reinstitute them into an the a Hi, a background [Melissa] to their homes. [Barry] To a support system. I'm sorry. In my terms I I just went from a real estate class to homelessness. Um to a support system that can continue to help them continue to get better and and thrive.

So that's why it's key for that for him to run that. So yes that particular program is duplicated but at different times at different areas for different needs. [Melissa] Different crossroads.

[Barry] Different yeah. Right. And that's an acceptable duplication. [Melissa] So and you're right. The point of that is you just spent diner in jail.

You're sober. You're clean.

Let's get you home. Let's get you while you. [Barry] Let's keep you supported. [Melissa] Let's keep you motivated. [Barry] Yeah. [Melissa] And let's help get you home. [Barry] Yup. [Melissa] And we get them on the bus and the city has money in the budget for that. [Barry] They do. The city has always budgeted that. Um I think Chief Hardwick's program.

I think they got they have several one or two ways to fund it. I won't get into that because I can't say it. [Melissa] Right.

Um but I think there's one or two ways to fund that so they're they're doing that and it's it's going to be key.

You're going to see it's going to make a change that these things are going to make changes. So. [Melissa] Right. Yeah. Well and on that note, I'm going to start us on a sign off because we didn't even get to talk about code enforcement. You got a lot going on in your code enforcement office. You got new staff there. [Barry] A short-term rental. [Melissa] Short-term rental. So, we're going to have you back talk about that. [Barry] Yup, we will do it. [Melissa] Okay. Well, great job on all of the progress. I'm so excited about what you were telling us today because it really puts us in a forward motion. We're not just Talking about it. We're now in a place where we're going to start seeing that fence. We're going to see that property cleaned up at. [Barry] Yeah. [Melissa] At 207.

And the and the and the construction on 16. [Barry] Yeah there's a lot of citizens waiting to see that happen and and see that progress. So it's coming very soon. Um hopefully by mid December you'll start to see a lot of changes there.

[Melissa] Okay. So thanks for coming by Barry. [Barry] Thank you for having me.
